Art Educator's Workshop

On June 19th & 20th, 2014, seven educators gathered at the Center for the Arts for our 11th annual two day workshop.

What a grand opportunity for these dedicated educators to get "recharged" and earn graduate credits from Ashland University. MARRINA Columbo, (Adjunct) and Paul Stellar from Ashland University, participated along with instructors Kim Hohlmayer, Sherry Crilow, Bill Koch and Bill Shryock. The educators worked like whirlwinds and had a great opportunity to get reconnected, share ideas as well as encourage one another. Thanks to the hard work of Director Jeannine Kennedy and all those who participated, it was another smashing success!!

Tracy's sculpture is looking rather "Angelic"

Kathleen is on the verge of creating a masterpiece

Jeannine faithfully behind the scenes

Everybody's opinion was seriously considered ...not

Charity is always happy ...especially while working in clay

Connie has the creative juices flowing now!

Amy was rather estatic about her clay creation!

Carrie creates her "funny little man" out of clay ...which was no joke

Some artists just can't handle the spotlight

Some artists just want to be left alone

Charity and Sarah are savoring the tranquility of NOT having students around

Sherry and Kim remained very serious throughout the workshop
